Negative Pressure for Positive Healing

Negative-pressure wound therapy provides patients with a vacuum dressing used to enhance and promote wound healing in acute and chronic wounds. The therapy involves using a sealed wound dressing attached to a pump to create a negative pressure environment in the wound. Applying continued vacuum dressings helps to increase blood flow to the area and draw out excess fluid from the wound. Depending on the wound type or location, the vacuum can either be applied continuously or intermittently. Negative pressure wound therapy can be used for a few days to several months at a time.

Smart Negative Pressure (SNaP™) Wound Care System

- Ultraportable device does not require the use of an electrically powered pump
- Light weight design can be hidden under clothes
- No batteries to interfere with daily living
- Negative pressure allows for greater sealing of the wound so it can generate tissue
- Doesn't disrupt the wound bed because vacuum dressings don't need to be changed as often as traditional methods.
- Provides greater outcomes and a more rapid recovery
